Job Hunting Strategy

1. STEP: DEFINE YOUR GOAL = IDEAL JOB DESCRIPTION

Where do you really want to work? What do you want to do?
Is your goal realistic? Is it a standard, medium or difficult undertaking?

Career Clarity
If you are not sure about your goal, spend some time on confirming that you are going into the right direction (see page 4).

To quote Stephen Covey,
"If the ladder is not leaning against the right wall, every step we take just gets us to the wrong place faster."

2. STEP: POSITION YOURSELF = USP (UNIQUE SELLING PROPOSITION)

What makes you stand out on the job market?
Why should you not only be considered for a role, but hired?

Every step of the job search explained - backed by research!
The course is designed as a comprehensive, step-by-step introduction to the strategic planning of your job search, with an understanding of COVID-time market trends.

Check out our course on Udemy.

3. STEP: APPLICATION TOOLS

Are your tools (CV, cover email) adapted to the target group: headhunters vs. decision makers?
Do they communicate your USP? Who you are? Are they flawless?

CV for Humans
- first ½ page (= first impression) is key
- does the reader know unequivocally what role you are the best fit for?
- add tangible successes & projects

CV for ATS (Applicant Tracking System)
- when uploading your CV to a database (headhunter, company or via a job ad)
- very (!) strict formatting rules. Guide here
- tip: use JobScan.co for optimizing

LinkedIn Profile (← hyperlinked)
- for humans: well-written profile summary
- hack the LinkedIn algorithm:
  ◦ research & add skills prior to applying
  ◦ update Job Seeker preferences

4. STEP: ACCESS THE HIDDEN & VISIBLE JOB MARKET = GENERATE INTEREST & OFFERS

Networking (28.66%)
Audit your current network & prepare strategies for different segments. Who else should you be connecting with? Prepare a networking plan.

Direct Approach (35.33%)
Email your potential boss directly in 60-120 well-selected companies (in line with your goal = 1st step).
How to find email addresses: here.

Headhunters (13.00%)
Identify & contact 30-50 headhunters per country that you are actively interested in. Note: countries with a population >30 million are city-driven.

Job Ads (23.00%)
Prior to each application adapt your CV (see ATS). Request to join our LinkedIn group (hyperlink): Hidden Job Market for Experienced Managers in Europe.

KPIs

$$\frac{\text{\# of reactions or interviews}}{\text{\# of effectively contacted (min. 60)}} = \begin{array}{l} \textbf{RR} = 30\text{-}50\% \\ \text{or} \\ \textbf{IVR} = 5\text{-}10\% \end{array}$$

If your KPIs are lower, review the entire process: quality of your goal, positioning, mistakes in CV, not enough contacted people or the wrong ones?

Tip: Treat the job hunting process like a project: establish a time line and milestones. Track your progress and calculate your KPIs, so you know if you are on the right track or not. Record your contact history. Ask your Career Angel to give you access to a template!

TIMING

The length of your job search process will depend on the following two aspects:

How easy / realistic your job search goal is:

Complexity (& duration) of a job hunting process

Standard: you are looking for a job in line with your experience, competences & interests

Medium: you are looking for a job in line with your competences, outside your key industry

Difficult: you are looking for a job that is outside your core experience and industry. It is possible, but requires planning
How systematic & intensive your own activity is:

Operating under the assumption that you:
- are looking for a job in line with your competencies
- activate all four job hunting channels parallel:
  ◦ 30-50 headhunters per city / country
  ◦ networking
  ◦ 60-120 companies (depending on market & seniority)
  ◦ job ads,

your job search timing will most likely look like this:
First 2-3 weeks: preparation of Steps 1, 2 and 3
4th week: start of emailing & contacting
5th week: follow-up messages
6th week: first round interviews are completed (incl. screening calls)
→ decide whether more activity is necessary (extend list of companies, etc.)
7th-9th week: silence or low activity; send out LinkedIn contact requests
10th week onward: 2nd, 3rd-round interviews

Everything you need to know about managing your career

What influences how we manage our careers?
Why do we choose one offer over another?
Is it really bad to stay 12 years at the same company?
Should we denounce people who change jobs frequently?
What about buying into the rat race?
Does it make you happy to climb the corporate ladder?

You really prefer atmosphere & people over money & prestige?
They call you immature for not choosing a serious path?
Your main driver is self-development?
Do you catch yourself thinking, "I hate managing people!"?
I'm 42 years old. It's too late to change anything.
Frustration kicks in when there's too much routine?

Answer the following two questions honestly:
How would you define a successful career?
If everything was possible, how would your most satisfying and fulfilling career path look like?

36% of the respondents would answer both questions (almost) identically, whereas 64% would give two slightly or completely different answers. This information comes from Decision Dynamics, a company that has been collecting and analyzing data on i.a. people's careers for over 40 years. What else does the research tell us?
1) There's a "brain-level" and a "heart-level" response
2) There are common patterns

Decision Dynamics' Career Model consists of four main Career Concepts or views of an ideal career:

The Expert Career Concept is the most stable and historically dominant view of a successful career as being a lifelong commitment to a profession with which one identifies. Success means to be the best, i.e. the expert in one's area.

The Linear Career Concept is instead focused on rapid movement upward the "corporate ladder". Success is measured in the level one has reached, which can be translated in responsibility, power and influence.

The Spiral Career Concept is a less traditional view where one rather discovers one's career through periodic (5-10 years) lateral changes of occupational fields. Success means frequent opportunities to widen one's competence base and get new experiences.

The Transitory Career Concept is the most change-oriented and least conventional view, even to the extent that many consider it as not even a career. The more different and frequent the changes, the better.

By now you should have realized that everybody's definition of a successful career is equally wrong as it's right. There simply is no one right answer. Different things make different people happy.

We really, really hope that you are not among the 64%, but if there's a slight chance that you are, talk to a certified Career Angel.

You'll receive:
- an online questionnaire
- a report showing the differences between the career path you've chosen and the one that motivates you the most
- a comprehensive feedforward session that you'll leave with concrete next steps
